Angela brings expertise and dedication to her role as a government relations specialist. She uses her wealth of knowledge and experience to guide clients to their desired legislative goals.

Angela assists clients by tracking relevant legislation, providing political analysis on current events, connecting clients with policymakers and external organizations, and strategizing with clients to best serve their needs. Angela's policy work is focused on the areas of healthcare, non-profit and community-based programs, and technology.

Angela received her B.A. in Political Science and History from Dickinson State University and M.A. in Political Science from Iowa State University.
