You can feel it as soon as you enter our offices. You can see it in the warm camaraderie between the staff as well as the attorneys working throughout the firm. It's the energy of a healthy team environment. We're friends, allies, creative professionals who support each other's professional success and personal fulfillment. That's part of what makes us such a strong firm—and a great place to be every day.

Fredrikson & Byron is a wonderful place to grow a career. We offer a variety of continuing education opportunities, such as computer training, classes through Fredrikson University, and more. We promote from within where we can and also facilitate career development by supporting attendance at various professional conferences and sponsoring legal secretaries' memberships to the National Association of Legal Secretaries.

We know our staff are more than their jobs. They're family members, parents, friends, unique individuals with diverse background and insights, people experiencing milestones, triumphs and everyday concerns outside the scope of professional lives. We honor that sense of identity and balance and we work hard to help promote and protect it.
