Masha Yevzelman Named a 2022 Women in Business Honoree

Firm News

03.15.2022

Fredrikson & Byron attorney Masha M. Yevzelman has been named a 2022 Women in Business honoree by the Minneapolis/St. Paul Business Journal. The honorees were selected because of their outstanding professional achievements, leadership qualities and contributions to the region. According to the Business Journal, they represent a wide swath of industries and include entrepreneurs growing their businesses, high-level executives at global corporations, and nonprofit and government leaders.

An event celebrating this year's award winners will be held in Minneapolis on May 20, 2022. All honorees will be featured in the May 2022 Women in Business special publication. This is the 25th year the Minneapolis/St. Paul Business Journal has recognized top female business and community leaders in the Twin Cities.

Yevzelman represents public and private companies, trusts, estates and high-net-worth individuals in complex tax disputes. She handles all stages of tax controversies — voluntary disclosures, audits, administrative appeals, tax court, district court and appellate litigation. Yevzelman's experience includes resolving and litigating tax disputes relating to a variety of tax types, including state corporate and individual income tax, sales and use tax, federal and international tax, and real and personal property tax.
